Here's Why The iPhone Cell Phone Is A Special Device

In the past I have several cell phones which I've been happy with, but nothing prepared me for how fantastic my apple iphone would be!

The one feature that many phones have but with disappointing results is surfing the web, the iphone with its Safari browser is exceptional. The service provided by ATT is excellent and it literally does work anywhere.

The clarity of the screen on the iphone is brilliant, when you consider the size of a cell phone. If there is anything on the site you want enlarging, the touch technology makes it a piece of cake.

This phone really is a design triumph, no two ways about it. The apps are incredible, with millions of people visiting the apps store every day giving Apple a huge hit.

The options for pictures and videos are adequate, but not exceptional. Saying that, as it isn't a digital camcorder or camera and the picture quality is still far superior to many cell phones.

Another great thing I've found is that when I'm composing a text message I am typing about 5 times faster than before when I had to use the key pad. The only problem I envisage here is if you have exceptionally large fingers, but that applies to all phones when it comes to texting.

The iphone has one of the most powerful alarms I have ever heard on a cell phone. I could easily sleep through the alarm on my last cell, there's no chance of that now! The only thing I was mildly disappointed with was the quality of ringtones, but as these are never great I just downloaded myself some good ones.

The iphone can be charged two different ways; from the mains and also from a USB port. The first is a faster charger, taking 15-30 minutes, the second takes 45-60 minutes if the phone is dead.
