The question to ask yourself is of this knowledge is so powerful, why are they letting the public in on their secrets?

There are outs and out scams that plague the internet, such as the "Money Matrix" mlm pyramid schemes and the letters from somebody in africa wanting you to "process" large amounts of money on their behalf through your bank account for a percentage of the money.

How do you avoid spending a fortune on e-books, web hosting products, etc?

There are free resources out there to help you. One great resource is blogger. Blogger is owned by the internet giant Google, and provides space for an unlimited number of blogs, all absolutely free. All you have to do is register for a free account, pick a topic (or several topics) and get started.

When you pick your topic, you should do research into the most popular keywords and include them in your description. Good has free tools to help you find the most effective keywords to make money online with, that will increase your visibility in the search engines. Choose a title that is popular and that you know something about.

Next, you need something to sell. E-books are an excellent choice, because there are no shipping charges, they require no packaging or wrapping, and they can be instantly delivered to your customer electronically. Sign up for a free affiliate account with Clickbank, and you will immediately have access to thousands of products that you can promote and sell online. Choose a product (or a few products) that will solve a problem for people and that is related to the topic of your blog.

Heres your free blog set up, and you have at least one digital product chosen. Don't just jump in and start promoting the product, as this will turn off potential readers who will think that this is nothing but a spam advertising. Make about five or six "actors" or characters, with different email accounts that will help you make money online.

These characters will be having a conversation about a problem related to the subject, which the e-book from Clickbank will solve. There are many possible sources of free email accounts. Make sure that you configure your blog so that your characters all have posting rights.

Make sure that it is set to ping after each post is made, because this is a major way that traffic is driven. People will begin to notice you, subscribe to it, and buy the product that one of your characters said solved their problem. The main thing is keeping your blog & video current with fresh posts and believable characters. You can use keyword optimized bum marketing articles for your posts as well.

Using bum marketing 'long tail keywords' within all your posts that relate to the solution your product will provide is another fantastic way to profit from targeted traffic to your own sites, blogs and other related landing pages.

There are several different ways to profit from with making money affiliate marketing online beyond the obvious.
