What is the Cost of a Home Alarm System

Because of the increasing crime rate in many areas, more people are starting to install home alarm systems. These systems are offered in lots of different models created to accommodate the wants of the average homeowner and the business entrepreneur. How much you spend on your home alarm system depends on the features it is equipped with and how thorough the system is. You can get alarm systems for the home through normal security agencies such as Brinks or from a retailer of security items.

The online retailer of Home Security Store has a basic entry alarm chime that has a price tag of just $14.99. The system is great for apartment or dorm life where you can't have a broad system put in. The alarm can be installed on any entrance, including doors, fire escapes and windows. They also have a few other simple door alarms with price tags ranging from $10 to $70. The alarms use a magnetic sensing device that triggers the alarm feature. With a large house, better security may be offered through motion detector alarms.

The basic motion detectors vary in cost from about $20 to $85. These systems consist of just one unit that can be situated in any location you want to secure. You can select from a wireless alarm or a wired alarm. For approximately $85, the -480-GE, ITI, Caddx wireless motion detector is a great system. The alarm is made to sense any movement that is in an enclosed area. This alarm would not be functional in the outdoors. These devices are made to be subtle and unnoticeable. The NX-480 model has dimensions of 2 " x 3" and is 2" deep.

You might in addition purchase alarm systems that are positioned in entrances like doors or windows. You can also choose glassbreak detectors which are set off when the device senses any kind of forcible entry. These are recommended systems for hidden entrances such as kitchens and laundry rooms where someone could feel more hidden from someone who may see them. These systems retail all the way from $8 to $80 depending on the features of the system. They are also offered in either wireless or wired versions for easy installation.

If you're looking for a well-known security system company, both Honeywell and GE are highly recognized names. You can in addition purchase home security burglar deterrent units. These systems are not really operational alarm systems, but are created to appear as one. By putting in a fake alarm control box or a mock security camera in a spot, any would be thief will believe the area is being watched. If you can't afford a real motion detector alarm system, using a fake look alike system is the next best thing to deterring any would be intruders.
