Which Is The Best Keyword Suggestion Tool?

Keywords are the most important tool in blogging as it helps the reader to get into your site and read particular topic. It is one such activity where the choice of tools determines the keywords. Mentioned below are some of the powerful SEO tools by which you can have the keyword research:

- 1) AdWords Keyword Tools: While trying this tool, you can just enter any of the keywords which you like to include, the tool will offer you list of keywords and suggestion along with traffic and competition stats. This tool is originally designed for pay-par-click advertiser but it works just as well as organic SEO research.
- 2) Google search based keyword tool: This Google tool is designed in such a manner that, when the user's types in Google search page will get the suggestion. There are two by which you can use this tool: one by feeding in seed keywords just like getting with AdWords keywords and get some keywords idea which they will suggest you or you can just specify your website URL and tool will quickly locate the keywords in your text.
- 3) Keyword Discovery: It aggregates search traffic for all major search engines and generates new keywords. This tool also offers features like Keywords effectiveness calculator, competition reaserch and pay-par-click bid evaluation
- 4) Word Tracker: It one of the popular SEO keyword that works similar to Keyword discovery and AdWord Keyword Keywords. The only difference in this is, it uses Metasearch engines, Dogpile, and it evaluates number of searches for keywords. In Metsearch engines, are the search portals where users query are put into various search engines like Google, MSN, Yahoo, Bing and many others. Later, all the search results are put it into one list.
- 5) Google Suggest: It is not a great search tool that can be used for, but it helps to discover new search results which you might be missing out. You might have seen that, when you visit Google page there you will find a search toolbar. As soon you start typing, the word suggestion keeps on dropping with various keywords. That's what is called Google Suggest. But bear in mind that when you try to sign in Google service accounts the general keyword suggestion will be mixing with different queries.

Overall using Google search engine is tricky because you can't copy the suggestion and need to put them on paper first. Apart from the above keywords there are also some other keywords which can be used while blogging. There are some SEO firms which offer this tool to you, to get keywords search. When you use this right insight will help in bringing massive exposure to your site and help to get your product get sold out. The only thing is you should not use them as an ultimate solution. Try your own skill in to analysis, testing and implementing of your SEO technique. But when it comes to gathering and breaking up data, monitoring your reports then SEO tool are the best.
