In corporate gift giving, it is up to the business firm to balance the cost and the quality when considering any items. Furthermore, any corporate gift should be an item that those who will be receiving it are able to appreciate its worth. The corporate gift's main objective may be just to advertise the business firm's name or brand, but the company image will be viewed in a more positive light by the recipients if they can derive some use from the keepsake that they received from the business firm.

One such corporate gift suggestion is the non woven bag. Thus, being a practical gift item, the non woven bag has versatile uses. When people are asked to choose between a paperweight and a non woven bag as something they would prefer to have, everybody unanimously opted for the non woven bag.

Aside from being very functional, a non woven bag is an ecologically friendly corporate gift. As the awareness for the state of the environment grows, and as more people and groups are advocating for the protection of the environment, the use of plastic containers has been highly discouraged. Thus, non woven bags are the ideal substitute to the plastic shopping bag that is a threat to the environment. Many shoppers these days are exercising "responsible shopping," so they take their own non woven bags to the shop and use these to hold their purchases.

The non woven bag is also a very advantageous token for the business firms who give them out, considering that these bags could be printed with the company's logo and would immediately serve as mobile commercials. Considering that producing television advertisement is quite an expensive venture, the non woven bags that also function as walking advertisements are largely welcome for encouraging publicity for the business establishment.

One can choose from a wide variety of styles and designs for the non woven bag. The non woven bag could also serve as a container for the "main" gift that the company is giving out, and then the bag is a bonus. Surely, the company who wishes to incorporate the non woven bag in their corporate gift giving custom would never go wrong with their selection.
