How To Get A Prank Caller Arrested?

A good friend of mine lately started experiencing problems at her home. Usually around three in the morning, she would get a few phone calls. When she answered her telephone, there was nobody there, or someone would make a crude comment after which hang up. The first time she obtained a call, she woke up paranoid that one thing had happened to a family member.

Why else would she get a telephone call in the middle of the night ?Just after a few calls later, she thought it was some youngsters making an attempt to get a mischief. Then, after a couple of weeks she started getting the calls each evening and she started to get worried.

At lunch just a few days ago, she was extremely tired and upset. As we were discussing it with a third friend of ours, that friend told us about a website. The address was wegapeoplesearch.com. Our friend said that since most cell phones are unlisted and that it's hard to find the name, there were few places where you could find information that would really help.

However, he told us that through this website, you could simply type in the cell phone number and you would find out all sorts of information. You can find out everything from the full name and home number of the person that owns the cell phone, to the address and even criminal and civil information. So if the caller was a convicted criminal, you could find that out.

I went back to her home along with her and we checked the number together. Our friend was right. She got the complete name and address of the caller and she was surprised to know that he did have a criminal background. We were terrified for her, and I insisted we should go directly to the police station with the data we had found. Fortunately, because the caller was a criminal, the police took it seriously and paid a visit. They arrested the caller and my buddy was able to press charges. Thank goodness we could find the information.
