

Published based on Make A Living Making Decorative Lights

Make A Living Making Decorative Lights

Candles of all sorts continue to enjoy popularity, even in the high-tech world of today. They are used for celebrations, for rituals, in formal settings, for romantic moods, and just because people appreciate their beauty. When you learn how to make money making candles, you will have both the pleasure of producing something lovely and also producing a profit.

There are many different types of candles, and selecting which ones you want to make and sell is an important decision. There are votive candles, tea lights, tapers of various lengths, and pillar candles, among others. You will want to think about the various supplies required for different shapes, along with fragrances and colors.

Special equipment will be needed before you can start making candles. Pans and pots will be needed for wax melting and pouring, as well as the molds for various shapes of candles. You will also need an adequate work area for producing candles, and space to store your equipment and supplies when you are not working with them.

In addition to melting, pouring and molding equipment, you will need supplies of wax of different kinds, as well as colors and fragrances for tinted and scented candles. Wicks, of course, will be needed, either in cut lengths or on a roll for cutting. If you will be decorating candles, perhaps paints and other supplies will be needed too.

If you will be selling candles online or by mail order, you will need to think about how you will wrap them and what containers you will ship them in. You may want to package several candles in a decorative interior box, and use another carton for the actual shipping container. Packing materials such as bubble wrap or peanuts, tape, and other packing and shipping supplies need to be considered as well.

There are many options for selling your candles. If you wish to sell online, there are numerous sites where you can do so. Or, you may want to have your own website and store. Selling at local venues such as craft fairs, art and wine festivals, and flea markets are additional possibilities. Having a local store feature your candles might work also.

Of course, since you want to make a profit, it is important to consider costs. The amount you charge for your candles should be sufficient to cover all expenses, and make some money for you too. But, there will be an upper limit that people will pay. Researching what is being sold already, and at what prices, will help you decide your own prices.

Once you learn how to make money making candles, you will have found an enjoyable occupation that also is financially beneficial. There can be a lot of satisfaction in crafting high quality items that people will be excited about buying. Your lovely candles will provide many hours of pleasure and beauty for your customers.

Once your candle making business takes off, you can use this Travelocity promo code and travel for less without feeling guilty because you will still be making money.

You can also find this article published on Make A Living Making Decorative Lights, and on the tag pages business, candle, celebration, craft, decorations, DIY, ECommerce, entertainment, family, make, marketing, sales.