Discover The Best Ways To Make Internet Marketing Work In 2010

Do you want to make money online? Do you want a very flexible schedule where you can work anywhere and at anytime? Another really cool thing about working with internet marketing is that you can choose to do more or less anything you like as there are many different ways to make a living online.

In this post, we'll look at the best ways to make an income on the internet.

1. Affiliate marketing is probably the easiest way to make a decent income from your home. You're basically promoting other people's stuff via websites or advertising. Each time someone purchase a product trough one of your links, you'll get a commission of the sale.
2. Drop shipping is kinda like affiliate marketing, but with physical products... The way it works is that you promote some items (trough your own website with a web shop for example) and then direct the orders to the merchant who'll then ship the items for you. Your commission is usually just the extra you charge for the item.
3. If you have your own stuff and want to sell this online, then you can also make a lot of money, especially if you are in a very specific market. If you have something unique that people want, then you'll make a ton of money. But you should remember that if you choose this option you'll have to take care of handling and shipping yourself.
4. Network marketing is a combination of selling products and building a downline of marketers who'll help you earn more money. This method of making money was very popular in the 90's. Network marketing is both an online and offline business model.
5. Finally, we have email marketing, which boils down to building a list of prospects and emailing them offers. You can combine this with all of the above. The cool thing about emails is that you are not dependent on other traffic sources and you can send offers to your list multiple times.
