Halloween Super Affiliate - Earn Thousands From Affiliate Programs

If you want to gain more freedom, quit your day job and start working from home, the internet has the answers that you need. If you have physical products to sell, eBay is the first place that you should go.

On the other hand, you can also make a good income online by promoting other people's products. This model is known as affiliate marketing. The concept is similar to marketing agent for offline business. However, since you are on the internet, the cost is much cheaper. In fact, you can get started for free.

As an affiliate marketer, you can make money in two ways. The most common way is to send real customers to the product owner's website. This model is commonly used by hosting companies and popular networks like Amazon Associates.

Which means, you need to master certain marketing skills including copywriting, email marketing and of course, traffic generation. You also need to focus on very specific keywords for both PPC or SEO campaigns. Otherwise, your traffic won't bring you money since it didn't convert into sales.

On the other hand, there are actually certain affiliate networks that will pay you only for sending leads to the merchants. This is known as CPA affiliate marketing. This type of program can be seen in networks such as Azoogole Ads, Neverblueads, Max Bounty and Pepperjam Network.

For CPA marketing, you don't need to sell anything, so the sales funnel is short and less marketing skills required. Most people think that is would be easier to earn money this way. However, keep in mind that CPA networks won't approve an affiliate easily. Normally, they will review an application manually.

Whether you are selling your own products, promoting affiliate products or CPA offers, the traffic must be targeted. If you the traffic isn't targeted, your effort will be wasted. Keep in mind that people will less likely sign up to trial offer or buy something if the traffic is less targeted.

If you are on low budget, the best way to drive free traffic would be to use search engine optimization. You need to focus on one keyword that your potential customer might be searching at Google. Then, create a relevant website or blog based on that keyword.

For start, you might want to focus on product name keywords. Most people who's ready to buy something online would probably enter such keywords to look for reviews or the best deal on the internet. Forget broad keyword terms like camera, antivirus or book. Such keywords won't bring you money.
