Being given a second chance to life and to love doesn't come along the way every day. If you have found out that your wife has cheated on you and you wanted to give your marriage a second chance, how will you ever get her to do and feel the same way? Sounds difficult but it may not as difficult as it seems.

Making this done doesn't mean that you will not be facing challenges along the way. It won't be an easy journey and you may as well need to do few changes to come along with. But if you're really serious in saving your precious marriage, these amazing ideas on how to have your wife get into giving your marriage a second chance will not go wrong.

1. Put into action the changes that you want to see in your marriage. Make the first step forward in making this happen. Let your wife see that you are a different man now. I know that she is the one who cheated you. What she did was wrong. She hurt you a lot for doing this but if you indeed serious in saving your marriage, you do the first step. Show her. Give her a reason to do the same. Make the first move. Then let her do the next steps in making these changes happen. Become a better husband so that she can become a better wife for you in the future.

2. Show her a little of your romantic side. Have you asked yourself if when was the last time you have gone out to a romantic dinner? Why not go out. Leave the kids at home. Go out and try to have a romantic dinner together. But remember not to expect something out of this. The effort you made in knowing that you may not be getting anything for it is the one that counts. You want her back in your life and you know that deep inside her, there is still a hopeless romantic side of her that awaits the Prince Charming in you to sweep her off her feet again.

3) Learn to fight. Couples fight. It's a fact of life. You need to learn how to disagree in a manner that doesn't bring the house down or send the neighbors fleeing for safety. In marriages, fighting needs to be about coming to a consensus or finding a compromise. It should never be about winning for the sake of winning or ripping out the heart of the other person on your way to victory. Those are the types of fights that no one ever wins.
