One of your goals may be how to speak English well. You now live in a North American City and it is essential to be able to communicate in English. Your goal may be to learn English for being able to speak English socially or for business. It is important for you to become proficient in English.

Learning foreign languages is very demanding. It demands devoting time and a strong commitment to be able to speak well enough so that others can understand what you say. Watching the mouths of those speaking to you, or when you watch television. Can show you the positions that are important for good pronunciation. In this manner you learn the rhythm of the English language. Keep repeating the rhythm and continue to copy the intonation.

While learning to speak, be sure to speak very slowly until you learn the right rhythm to the language. Your mother tongue does not have the same rhythm as English. Using a dictionary will assist you in showing you the right pronunciations of words. This helps in saying the correct word when practicing.

It is important to list the words you have trouble remembering how to pronounce. Finding a native speaker to help you with these words and practicing with this person is very helpful. It is beneficial for your progress in learning to be fluent.

Getting some books on tape is another technique that is great to use. After you listen to the story on the tape you then tape your own voice repeating what you heard. This is a great practice on how to say words. You then see how what you have recorded compares with the original recording. You will hear the words that you do not pronounce correctly.

Taking time every day to read something out loud is very beneficial. This can develop the muscles needed to pronounce the words properly. By carefully pronouncing every syllable and the endings in each word can help you progress more quickly. Again recording your daily practice can identify words you are not pronouncing in the correct manner.

There are no quick result when you learn a new language. You must devote time and a good deal of effort to it. Joining a club where you will only hear and speak English is a very positive way of improving the way you speak. Patience and perseverance will bring you success.
