Muslim Hijabs For An Elegant Look

Every lady wishes for a unique fashion, which mirrors her personality. And thinking of style for Islamic lady the preliminary thing that comes to mind is the Muslim hijab. The hijab in Arabic refers to a 'cover' or 'barrier'. The Muslim hijab is essentially a headscarf covering the head and the neck. Whether you wear the hijab to make a political statement, out of religious belief or only for style, they might make you gaze quite attractive and elegant. They come in a number of designs and colors that make it all the more difficult to select one that suits you the best.

Muslim Hijabs: The Types

The Muslim hijab has been in use since medieval times, and since afterward, it has developed into various patterns depending on the culture and area (such as the Kuwaiti hijab plus the Pashmina hijab). However, it basically is of three types:

* The Al Amira: This is basically a two piece veil, consisting of a large head band or a close fitting cap, commonly produced of polyester or cotton, along with a tube like scarf worn over it.

* The Shyla: This is a long and rectangular scarf generally worn by lady in the Gulf countries. It's wrapped over and around the head, and after that pinned or tucked at the shoulder.

* The Khimer: The Khimer is mostly longer. It consists of a cape like veil, which commonly falls down to a little above the waist. It handles the hair, bosom, neck and shoulders, whilst leaving the face open. Muslim women will generally wear the Khimer while they pray or when they are on the Hajj pilgrimage.

How to Wear a Muslim Hijab

There are a number of ways in which you may wear the hijab; though, most of them share the following standard steps:

1. Area the chosen hijab over your head. Assure that it's longer on one side, though not too long, as it might come loose whilst you wear it.
2. Pull one of the edges taut across the forehead a little above the brow line.
3. While you keep holding the edge of the head scarf, tuck it behind the ears and bring the two lengths together at the bottom of your skull.
4. Pinning the two sides of the hijab together behind your skull with a safety pin, bring its two sides to the front of the shoulder in such a manner that they lie over your bosom.
5. Hold the longer end of your hijab, and after that wrap it underneath the chin accordingly your neck doesn't show. Assure that you don't pull the hijab's longer side also hard otherwise you might loosen it.
6. Wrap the longer side around the back of the head.
7. Carry the longer side around the crown and bring it back to the side where you started.
8. Tuck or pin the longer side into the headscarf underneath your chin.
