

Published based on Sound Stages Atlanta As A Great Substitute To Hollywood

Sound Stages Atlanta As A Great Substitute To Hollywood

In recent months, there has been a constant buzz around Atlanta about local sound stages Atlanta being built to cater to the movie making sector. Atlantans are delighted. After all, who would not want more income coming into the state, in addition to the possibility of bumping into a lot more celebrities. For someone who visited Hollywood this development would certainly keep one enthusiastic. Since of course, the shininess of Hollywood is clearly on the surface. While anybody will love to have the motion picture sector much closer to home, it would likewise show up the seedier aspect of the industry too.

Most part of Hollywood has found to be too costly. Additionally, the most well-known places such as the city of Hollywood, is relatively found unsafe. While many places are fine to travel to during the day, it's not advised hanging around in the evening, not to mention booking a hotel accommodation there. For sure there are nice, risk-free areas too, through the glitzy show business industry, anyone who will look close could see a bad side also.

Due to generous tax breaks in the state of Georgia, movie makers can't help but be wooed to their neck of the woods. Recently released motion pictures shot there include "The Blind Side", "The Lottery Ticket", as well as "Zombieland". Tyler Perry Studios where Madea movies and several television shows are produced are likewise located in the Atlanta area. These movies were shot without using established movie studios. Having the studios accessible to film makers will definitely increase movie making capabilities in the Atlanta area.

In Henry County GA, a studio is now being set up at Tara Field in airport hangars near Atlanta Motor Speedway by Big 5 Studios. EUE/Screen Gems has brand new sound stages at the former Lakewood Fairground, located near the Atlanta Airport. Nonetheless, all isn't well in "Southern Tinseltown". "The Walking Dead" is at present being filmed in the Black Market Area of Atlanta. Business as well as shop keepers aren't too excited about the idea of having entire roads cut off for filming. Compensation packages do not seem to be thrilling enough to make it worthwhile. The main dilemma in this incident will be the lack of communication with the business owners, so hopefully over time such kinks will be ironed out. For all those Hollywood hopeful types who want to get into the movie business, you could keep your eyes peeled for extra parts. You might have by now missed the casting calls for "Mean Girls 2", which will commence filming in Atlanta very soon.

Sound stages Atlanta are a big financial shot in the arm and it happens instantly the moment that motion picture starts up. So the more motion pictures that get shot in this area due to this infrastructure which are situated there to service the film, the better it is for the greater local community. Income goes not merely into this enterprise, it goes into hotels, gasoline stations and restaurants. The economic impact is massive. So everybody would like to get a piece of that; the said economic impact in Atlanta.

Sound Stages Atlanta are soundproof, hangar-like properties used for movie as well as television productions. Furthermore, Georgia Sound Stages make it easier for the production staff to design as well as construct the sets to be used.

You can also find this article published on Sound Stages Atlanta As A Great Substitute To Hollywood, and on the tag pages Advertising, arts and entertainment, business, entertainment, film, hobbies, internet, marketing, movies, multimedia, music, technology.