Shopping for Jewellery from America

If you have a penchant for white gold, platinum, and diamonds then buying from the US will be a good thought. Unlike in Asia, Gold is not the western favourite. Most westerners prefer to buy white jewellery; in fact silver is also a welcome form of jewellery which is very admired. In Asia the most popular form of silver jewellery are probably only anklets.

Some of these US jewellery stores are a 100 years old or more. Even if you haven't heard names like <http://www.zales.com> , <http://www.bluenile.com> , or <http://www.cartier.us> you have surely heard of TIFFANY. If you are not living in the US or if you have no need to visit US, shopping in TIFANNY will almost remain a dream. But now, with everything under the sun being sold on the net, nothing's a dream. Shop at <http://www.tiffany.com> .

Visit these online stores for a fantasy experience. Each of these sites have been created with such absolute and fantastic detail that you will be floored. Especially the TIFANNY site has an application which when downloaded will show the exact size of carat chosen.

The sections range from Engagement, Men, Women, Gift, Diamonds, watches, Designer collections to Accessories. Each of the sections has sub sections offering jewels ranging from as low as $250 and under to sky is the limit.

The Zales' online store is an exclusive Diamond store where price tags range from $100 and under to $1000. They have a wide range of collection in not just Diamond but also white gold, silver, combinations of silver and diamond. I especially find their "Personalized" section intriguing. You will find beautiful dollars in birthstones which are perfect to gift and own.
