To add elegance and beauty to any wardrobe consider the wearing of a sterling silver pendant. In fact almost any outfit looks better with a silver pendant as an accessory. The traits expressed can be done through the many different designs that are made available in the marketplace. Thus the choices one has are virtually endless, which makes the one that you ultimately choose all that more special. It is something that will be worn in a position that is near to the heart and will have the sentimental value to match. Especially if this particular charm has been given as gift to you from someone who is close to you.

Some designs that have become available to the consumer are those that are fashioned in the shape of a heart, a dragon, one that has gems encrusted on it, and one that is called a letter pendant. This letter pendant is usually the first letter of the wearer's name or the first letter of the name of a significant other. The ones with gems can be mounted with anything from birthstones to diamonds and rubies. Heart shaped pendants are either solid or have a design cut out in the middle and can have gems encrusted on them as well.

Other designs that a pendant can come in can be shaped like a star, a dragon, have a Gothic design, and are round. A silver star on the end of a chain can make anyone feel special due to its brightness. The dragon design itself is one that is extremely popular with those that collect Gothic themed items. Round ones are elegant and can be engraved or decorated with gems according to the preference of the wearer.

How then do you actually choose the one that is right for you? First off, do you feel a personal connection to the piece? Does it, as they say, speak to you on some level? After all it is a work of art and as such it should fascinate you in some way. [!:<http://www.webmarksolutions.com/wp-content/uploads/2011/10/JanPavlik33.jpg>]

Of course there are other components involved in the choice of a sterling silver pendant. They include things like if it was cast and polished without losing much detail, where and how it was made, and the percentage of sterling silver in its makeup. Thus you will ultimately find that you have ended up with a piece that you will be proud to wear.
