How To Get A Girls - Spark Attraction Through Storytelling

It is a scary world out there: many women yap on about wanting a guy built like Achilles with Matthew McConaughey's face.

But there is something that trumps a great body, a beautiful face, social status, and money: Being a master Storyteller. Every ladies man I've ever met was a great storyteller.

If you aren't a great storyteller, you're missing out - big time.

Becoming a great storyteller may seem like a daunting task but it is actually easy. In fact, you already are a great storyteller yet don't know it. Do you have stories you share with close friends, family, and women you know well? I bet you do.

Here's what I want you to do: think about all the stories and experiences you share with friends and family. Write them out and make them a little more succinct.

Then share them with women when first meeting them. You'll be shocked at how well they work.

Here's a question you might be thinking: How do I transition into my stories during a conversation with a woman?

Here's what to do: figure out the premise of your story. Then turn the premise into a juicy headline. Let's pretend you had a one-legged uncle who won a marathon. The premise is this: people can still be successful athletes despite having serious setbacks.

Let's come up with a juicy headline. How about: "People are always complaining about how hard it is to accomplish things. That's a bunch of hogwash. I know cripples who outperform perfectly normal and healthy people. It's all about sheer determination." This is going to pique her interest. Now you can go into your story.

For each of your stories, try to come with a headline. Then go out and use them within the first few seconds of meeting a girl. I think you will be pleasantly surprised with the results.

This will work whether you make your money from marketing, advertising, the finance world, selling autos, or something else.

Whether you're into blogs, gardening, sports, spirituality, religion, traveling the world, being a family man, or health and fitness, this advice will help you.
